Europe Air Conscious
Nature Protests
A Dinner Jacket Hop
In 3 Months 13 Millions

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright 1936 by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and All Other Rights Reserved.)

Once more Europe is becoming what a good American salesman would call "war-conscious." Having already built up one of the greatest air fleets in the world, France will now spend five billion francs more for air fighting, new planes, more air fields, more men.

Belgium, as you have read, thinks about putting forts along the frontier separating her from France, and France planning forts to protect her from Belgium.

Australia is bargaining for 250 American fighting planes because British factories cannot supply the home demand. Perhaps Australia has her mind on Japan, also air-conscious, and very close to Australia.

Germany accuses neighbors of building "underground fortifications" aimed at Germany. Pertinax, able French writer, whose real name is Andre Geraud, thinks the big explosion will come with the peak of German rearmament, which is not far away, probably next spring or summer.

England at the moment has a separate little quarrel with Japan over the beating of three British sailors by Japanese policemen. One sailor had his jaw fractured. England does not like that, but the question is, would she fight the Japanese for the sake of one sailor's jaw?

Young Englishmen who publicly declare that they would never again fight "for King and Country" might refuse even more emphatically to fight for the jawbone of a sailor.

The most serious incident for the moment is probably the seating of the English sailors. The British Vice-Admiral Sir Charles Little, naval commander in the Far East, has postponed his courtesy visit to Japan, which was to have been made tomorrow. When a British admiral postpones a courtesy visit, that means something.

Nature, as well as she ran, seems to express disapproval of all the planning for whole sale killing. A hurricane wipes out Germany's lightship, the Elbe, south of Heligoland, its whole crew, 14, killed.

Tokyo is shaken by another earthquake, the more you have of those things the more you worry, there is no "getting used" to them. Eighty-mile-an-hour winds roaring over England and Scotland cause deaths, much damage to shipping, trains are held up by trees blown across the tracks.

In earlier days of simple faith some nations would have concluded from such manifestations that Providence was angry.

It might be a good idea for this country, when it gets through with the election, to interest itself in these European developments. Thanks to airplanes, the United States, undefended, might not see the war drift in this direction. It is less than thirty years since the Frenchman, Blériot, won North cliff's prize by flying across the English channel. His months from now any European nation might have a thousand flying planes easily able to fly the Atlantic, or the Pacific.

First class pilots take flying casually; they worry only about the trip from the hotel to the flying field.

Mr. Mollison flew away yesterday morning in his long winged plane, dressed in his "dinner-jacket," black tie, open waistcoat, all complete, saying: "I'll be ready for a party when I arrive in London. Then he pulled down the transparent

The Truth About the New Payroll Tax

If You Doubt It, Ask Your Paymaster

NO matter what your wages or salary may be, it will be CUT on January 2 under the so-called Social Security law.

Employers are compelled by the New Deal legislation to open your pay envelope, to deduct specified sums, and to turn the money over to the government.

This is a new tax on your wages.

It is a tax you MUST pay.

It is a tax you MUST continue to pay every week of your working life until you are 65 years of age.

It is a tax the New Deal has ordained you can not and WILL NOT escape.

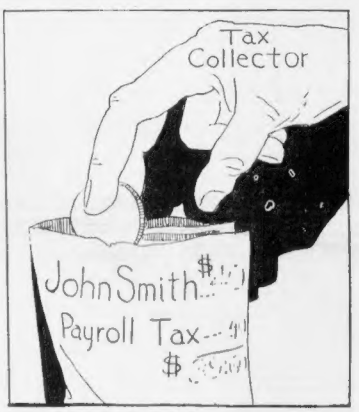
If you question this or wonder about how much you will pay, ask your employer or paymaster. He will end your doubts.

If you are an office boy earning a paltry $14 a week, you may think you are going to escape. You're wrong. You won't.

The New Deal has set you down for a contribution of 14 cents a week from 1937 to 1939.

Advancing age will bring you no relief. You will pay more.

From 1940 to 1942, 21 cents a week or $10.92 a year comes out of your $14 wage.



From 1943 to 1945, the contribution jumps to 28 cents a week or $14.56 a year.

It takes another leap in 1946 and you pay 35 cents a week or $18.20 a year.

But that is not all! There is one more boost in 1949 and you pay 45 cents a week, or $21.84 a year.

IF, during these years, you receive a raise in salary, you pay more. The New Deal is well prepared for that.

For instance, if your $14 wage is increased to $30 a week, you will find your pay envelope taxed as follows:

30 cents a week or $15.60 a year in 1937-1939.
45 cents a week or $23.40 a year in 1940-1942.
60 cents a week or $31.20 a year in 1943-1945.
75 cents a week or $39.00 a year in 1946-1948.
90 cents a week or $46.80 a year in 1949 and thereafter.

The higher your pay the more you will be taxed. They do not intend to let you avoid any payments.

IF you are 25 years of age and, by chance, have the good fortune to be earning $40 a week, you must be prepared to begin paying 40 cents a week, or $20.80, all next year.

GUILTY PLEA BY 3 MORE OF LOTTERY SYNDICATE

Dramatically, in one, two, three order, the remaining defendants in the million dollar sweepstakes frauds of 1934-35 changed their pleas in federal court today.

First, Harry Sherman, so-called "brains" of the ring that covered New England with fake tickets on a fake Canadian lottery, pleaded guilty to both indictments against him.

Then Jack Kriser of Boston pleaded to one of the indictments—charging interstate transportation of lottery tickets. The other count, to which Sherman had pleaded, was for illegal use of the mails. This was not pressed in Kriser's case.

ONE WITNESS HEARD

Only one government witness had given his testimony against Joseph Cohen, Roxbury manufacturer, when he, too, decided to plead guilty. He followed Kriser's plea and won a nol-pros on the mails indictment.

That marked the end. Judge George C. Sweeney called in the jury, thanked its members, and set sentencing date for Friday, November 13.

There were originally 26 persons named in the indictments returned by the federal grand jury.

One of these was in Canada and could not be extradicted. Another "jumped" bail. Two cases were dismissed. All the rest pleaded guilty to either one or both indictments. The cases were prosecuted by Assistant U. S. Attorney Henry M. Lerch.

TO SPEED SENTENCE

Lerch late today announced he would move for sentencing the defendants on Nov. 6 instead of Nov. 13.

Lerch was being congratulated on all sides for the work he and Chief Postoffice Inspector John J. Fennelon and his latter's assistant, Tennyson Jefferson, did in gaining such a victory for the government.

SCHOOL GIRL VANISHES AT NORTHFIELD

Northfield, Oct. 29 (INS)—Another mystery in this "school town," scene of the "campus murder" of Dr. Elliott Speer, suddenly developed today with the disappearance of Phyllis Manning, 14, granddaughter of Chief of Police Thomas Manning of Greenfield.

The shooting of Dr. Speer, headmaster of Mt. Hermon School for Boys, through the window of his study in 1934 was never solved.

Two months ago yesterday, Mary Bernard, 17, of Hatfield, vanished from Northfield Seminary, where Miss Manning was a pupil, and her body was found during a search in the swimming pool, supposed victim of accidental drowning.

Miss Manning attended a swimming class with four girls at the Northfield Seminary pool Tuesday afternoon.

She left the building with her friends, saying she had made a date with George Clarke of Deerfield, who would take his home. Clarke arrived as the other girls left, but there was no sign of Phyllis.

Democratic Breach Is Growing

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

On the brink of eruption since the storm given the state ticket by President Roosevelt, a desperate attempt to keep up the appearance of party harmony is being made by Democratic strategists through the holding of a big rally next Sunday night at the Boston Garden.

In this way, they hope to divert attention from the strained relations existing between the candidates and to offset the effect of the Saturday's G. O. P. torch light parade and rally in the Garden which is creating such state-wide enthusiasm among the Republicans.

There are fears being expressed, however, that the cure may be worse than the disease and that the dreaded open breach may come with startling suddenness at this meeting of the candidates.

Governor Curley gave evidence of irritability at a recent Jamaica Plain rally, and on his last appearance at the Washington street forum hinted that in giving up an office on the Arena for Boudoir, he thought Theodore Glynn would make a good presiding officer.

HUGE LANDON SWING IS ON OVER U. S.

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

New York, Oct. 29—A heavy swing is on for Governor Landon — throughout the country. Political writers say they sense it. The politicians say that the trend is evident; that the "feel" of it is obvious here, even in Democratic New York City.

Governor Landon has been receiving tremendous receptions, increasing in size, intensity and enthusiasm as his campaign progressed.

Indianapolis, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh showered him with magnificent demonstrations.

New York will crown his "victory" tonight.

G. O. P. FARM PLANK HIT BY ROOSEVELT

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 29—Fresh from a slashing attack on "pay-envelope propaganda" against the New Deal, President Roosevelt moved into Harrisburg this afternoon to denounce "the market-basket campaign" of the Republican leadership.

"You all remember that good old Republican slogan that was trotted out and polished up for every political campaign—the slogan of 'the full dinner pail,'" Mr. Roosevelt declared in an address from the state capitol steps.

"And we know that the Republican leaders themselves were responsible for its end and end. The full dinner pail turned out to be the empty market basket."

TRUTH ABOUT PAYROLL TAX—ASK YOUR PAYMASTER

There will be no relief for you in 1940, for during that year the New Deal has you listed for payments of 60 cents a week.

Three years later, in 1943, you are scheduled to give over 80 cents a week or $41.60 a year.

Another tax "week" awaits you in 1946, when you will be assessed one dollar a week.

And in 1949 comes an additional lilow with an involuntary contribution on your part of $1.20 a week or $62.40 a year.

Bigger Salary, Bigger Tax

This you will continue to pay as long as your job lasts.

If your brother earns $45 a week, he will not get off as easily as you. For him the following payments have been arranged:

45 cents a week or $23.40 a year in 1937-1939.
67½ cents a week or $35.10 a year in 1940-1942.
90 cents a week or $46.80 a year in 1943-1945.
$1.12½ a week or $58.50 a year in 1946-1948.
$1.35 a week or $70.20 a year thereafter.

Assuming your brother with the $45 a week job holds it until he is 65, he will have paid over to the government a total of TWO THOUSAND, FIVE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-FOUR DOLLARS.

It is $2574 he cannot avoid paying. The government will take it out of his earnings before he gets his pay envelopes.

To make you and other men and women working for a living believe you are receiving something for nothing, President Roosevelt and other New Deal spokesmen tell you that you are bearing only half the burden, that your employer is paying as much as you are.

What neither Mr. Roosevelt nor the spokesmen tell you is that in one form or another the payments will all be passed along to you.

This was brought out no longer ago than last March by John J. Bennett, Jr., New York Attorney-General, New Deal leader and official lawyer for that eminent New Dealer, Governor Lehman, President Roosevelt's close friend.

Defending Social Security legislation in court and dealing with facts, not election half-truths, Attorney Bennett made this admission:

"The burden imposed upon employers by a three per cent payroll tax will obviously depend upon the extent to which they can PASS IT ON.

"In the long run and under reasonable competitive conditions, the tax will be shifted EITHER TO WAGE EARNERS OR CONSUMERS OR BOTH."

In other words, the New York Attorney-General expressed the belief that you will pay not only what the New Deal has set you down to pay, but also all that your employer is supposed to pay.

Indirectly, the double burden will be passed along to YOU in the guise of ADDITIONAL wage reductions or increased prices.

Governor Lehman's administration is closely connected with the Roosevelt New Deal. The views of one find reflection in the views of the other. And the opinion of Mr. Bennett can reasonably be regarded as authentic.

They Spend Your Money

The faults of the Social Security law are many. You will find them and FEEL them if the Roosevelt plan remains unaltered.

For example, there are the more than six hundred thousand persons who will be hired to administer the law and to carry out its provisions.

You may have to be content with your meagre pension when you are 65 or older, but not the men who will handle the funds! Their compensation will range upward to $250 a month. And your money pays their big salaries.

As Governor Lehman's representative indicated, all the revenue will come out of you and everybody who works for a wage.

Then there is the determination of the New Dealers to take the money you pay in and the money your employer pays in on your behalf, AND SPEND IT.

Years hence, when it comes your turn to draw upon what has been taken out of your wages, you will have to rely upon the collection of taxes at that future time to get it.

In spite of what political campaigners tell you, there will be no reserve of $47,000,000,000 set up. The money is going out as fast as it comes in.

And you will have to trust to luck taxes will provide sufficient cash later on to give you the security you are now promised.

That Social Security, under the Roosevelt plan, is more or less a political sham is revealed when one realizes that today there are over 30 million persons of working age who are 30 years old or less.

It will be 35 years before the first of them reaches the pension age of 65.

But by then we shall already have more than 15 million persons of pension age, and the cost of the pensions will be running between $500 and $1000 a year.

And every year thereafter the numbers will increase!

So the cost will average TEN BILLION DOLLARS A YEAR when the children of today are drawing the pensions they start paying for on January 2.

A 30 Per Cent Wage Tax!

What will the estimated yearly collection be from the workers of the future in 1970 and thereafter? Two billion dollars.

Eight billions additional will have to be raised.

Will a six per cent tax on the payrolls raise ten billion dollars?

No. It will require a 30 per cent tax.

Will the workers at that time stand for such a confiscatory levy against their earnings?

Could they if they wanted to?

The answer is an emphatic NO. They cannot and, according to the Social Security Act, they do not have to. The law provides the following escape for the government:

"Sec. 1104. The right to alter, amend, or repeal any provision of this act is hereby reserved to the Congress."

Consequently, if the people of 1970 do not feel like raising ten billion dollars a year and taxing their wages 30 PER CENT to do it, the chances of your getting a "pension" may be rather slim.

But by that time, if you do not do so already, you may realize that Mr. Roosevelt's "security" is actually THE GREAT DECEPTION.

Perhaps, the principal fault you will find with the Social Security Law is that, compared with private insurance, it is not a very good bargain.

Briefly, this can be explained as follows:

If you, as a worker 25 years of age with a salary of $1800 a year, paid to any one of our first class insurance companies the $162 a year total that the government intends to take from you, you could after five years receive cash benefits of $15 a week for 37 weeks in case of illness.

When you had carried the insurance for 20 years, you could get $15 a week for 232 weeks.

And when you reached the age of 65, you could retire on a pension of $83 a month for life or die and leave $12,058 to your heirs.

Under the Roosevelt plan, you in the $1800 class will get only $61.25 a month or $2520 for your estate.

Certainly the Social Security Act fails to square with its promises.

If there can be such a thing as "security" involved, it is security for politicians.

Their jobs depend upon their having plenty of other people's money to spend.

And the act provides for them very satisfactorily by taxing every worker in the land, by reducing his wages, and by taking a larger percentage of the price of everything he buys.

This you will begin to see on January 2 in Mr. Roosevelt's way of taking care of the "forgotten man!"

Tomorrow, the Boston Evening American will show how YOU in Massachusetts will pay DOUBLE these payroll taxes.

Makes Security reply.

HAMILTON HITS ROOSEVELT'S SOCIAL SECURITY TALK

Chicago, Oct. 29 (AP) — Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton's declaration that money collected under the Social Security law would be used "to pay current treasury bills" spotlighted the legislation's position as a campaign issue today.

Hamilton, challenged in a statement directed to President Roosevelt, but made public by a message he said was from the President's radio address last Friday:

"Your dollars are held in a government trust fund solely for the social security of the workers.

"With the utmost respect, I cannot believe you read it (the line) or you could not have made the statement . . ." Hamilton said. "Really, Mr. President, there is no such provision in the act.

"The money taken from our workers' pay envelopes, and taken from every employer of labor in addition, . . . goes into the general fund of the treasury.

"Once there it can be used for any purpose the politicians elected to Congress decide. . . . There is no protection in the law, Mr. President . . . for the workers. Their money is not set aside. It is used to pay current treasury bills."

Roosevelt's Claim on Security Act Cash Refuted

NOT SEGREGATED

In his speech on the Social Security Act the other night, President Roosevelt declared that the contributions of employers are kept in a separate fund safe-guarded by the United States government. But the fact is they are not, and this is the chief criticism of the act.

Payments, instead of being segregated as should be done, are included in the general revenues. In Secretary Morgenthau's statement on the budget for this fiscal year, ending on July 1, next, he included the estimated revenue from the Social Security Act with the general revenues. Congress has every right to appropriate this money for any purpose it chooses.

That is the great danger in the act. The revenues will pile up for several years before any money is paid out. During all that time, unless the act is changed, Congress can deplete the fund at will. The money collected will by this device of bookkeeping make the revenue of the government far greater than it actually is.

If what the President claimed was actually provided for in the act, there would be far less criticism of it.

MANUFACTURER ARRESTED FOR DARING TO TELL TRUTH

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 29 (AP)—Arrested on a charge of violating Iowa election laws by distributing in pay envelopes unsigned notices "tending to create sentiment against President Roosevelt," Albert Penn, Des Moines manufacturer, struck back today at the complainant.

The Penn Electric Switch Company president issued a statement declaring:

"As I understand it, I was not arrested because I did not tell the truth, but because the prosecutor decided that the notices, criticising the social security law, had damaged Mr. Roosevelt's political chances."

President J. C. Lewis of the Iowa Federation of Labor signed the complaint which led to Penn's arrest.

Penn was charged formally with "causing the distribution of circulars tending to create sentiment against President Roosevelt and influencing readers of such circulars to vote against President Roosevelt without subscribing or having affixed, his name or the name of the organization so distributing the circulars."

The Iowa election law involved provides that such political notices must be signed. Penn said he placed his guilt on the ground the pay envelopes contained checks signed with the company's name.

Municipal Judge Charles Cooter fixed November 12 as the date for the manufacturer's hearing.

An exhibit attached to the complaint was a photostatic copy of a Penn Company pay envelope bearing this statement:

"Pay Reduction—Effective January, 1937, we are compelled by a Roosevelt 'New Deal' law to make a 1 per cent reduction from your wages and turn it over to the government. Finally this may go as high as 3 per cent.

"You might get this money back in future years—but only if Congress decided to make an appropriation for that purpose. There is no guarantee. Decide before November 3—election day—whether you wish to take these chances."

Said Lewis:

"For Mr. Penn's efforts to go unnoticed and not prosecuted would be for those of his frame of mind to be encouraged to indulge in misrepresentations and coercion in this and future campaigns . . . I am seeking to uphold the election laws of Iowa."

The prisoner was removed to the city police station for questioning.

A few minutes after the man was picked up, President Roosevelt rode smiling and waving to the crowds on his return to the Pennsylvania railroad station.

Landon Places Wreath on Grave Of His Idol, Theodore Roosevelt

EAST, WEST MEET WITH VICTORY SMILE

PAYS VISIT TO T. R. WIDOW

1000 Students Greet Kansan

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 29 (INS)—With simple dignity, Governor Alfred M. Landon today paid tribute to the memory of the man for whom he cast his first vote—Theodore Roosevelt.

Interrupting his presidential campaign, Governor Landon motored to the last resting place of the former President and laid a wreath of autumn leaves and chrysanthemums on his grave.

He stopped in Sagamore Hill, nearby, to pay his respects to Mrs. Edith K. Roosevelt, widow of his former idol.

The Republican candidate was favored with ideal weather for his trip through the town. Crowds shouted hearty greetings as his motorcade wound its way to this village.

Governor Landon crossed the East River to Long Island over the Triborg Bridge. One of his first stops was in Nassau, which, though a traditional stronghold of the party, had not been visited by a Republican presidential candidate since 1916, when Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the Supreme Court, campaigned there.

As the long line of automobiles rolled into the usually somnolent Oyster Bay, Governor Landon was given an enthusiastic ovation. His car halted in front of Oyster Bay High school, where the student band struck up a lusty "Oh, Susanna!" and 1000 students, who had been waiting an hour, broke into cheers.

Greets Students

"Hello, everybody," Mr. Landon said, getting out of his car.

He shook hands with as many of the students and 1000 townspeople crowding around him as he could. Five minutes later he was on his way again at the head of the parade and the boys and girls were shouting:

"Good luck! Good luck, Alf!"

At the cemetery, Governor Landon left his car and was escorted by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late President, up the hill path to the grave where the governor bared his head and placed the wreath on the fence surrounding the grave.

He bowed his head as though in prayer for a moment and then retraced his steps to the car.

Colonel Roosevelt also went into the Roosevelt home with Governor Landon, who stopped on the porch to shake hands with a small group of people. Eight small children arrived a short time later and they, too, went into the house. Through the windows the governor could be seen autographing books presented by the children.

When Colonel Roosevelt again reappeared on the porch, he was greeted with friendly inquiries by friends concerning his health. He grinned and said:

"I feel fine. I've got a bit of voice left to say what I think of the New Deal—but I've said all I can think of to say about it."

In addition to the widow of the late President, Governor Landon was greeted at the home by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of Colonel Roosevelt; Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Derby and a few intimate friends of the family.

N. Y. Talk Tonight

It was past noon when Governor Landon left the Roosevelt home to start for Brooklyn, where he was scheduled to speak at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel St. George.

And tonight in Madison Square Garden Landon will come his Eastern closing with one of the most important addresses of his drive for the presidency. The subject was withheld by Landon advisers, but the republican nominee was reported to be ready to strike at length at the record of President Roosevelt.

Harder even say his supporters than the smashing blow he struck at the Roosevelt labor and social security policies in Seattle last night. There Landon pledged real aid to labor and denounced the new payroll tax as a sham.

Landon was given a tumultuous reception by sophisticated New York City—a city reported to be overwhelmingly for his opponent. A crowd estimated by newspapers here at from 500,000 to 1,000,000 lined the streets to cheer enthusiastically as he rode less than twenty blocks from the station to his hotel.

Tens of thousands broke through police lines and literally stormed Landon's car. Time and again, police were forced to rescue him from would-be cheering supporters who sought to grasp his hand.

Smith's Welcome

Landon was deeply impressed with his reception. So too were Republican leaders. So too was Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for President in 1928, who paid his respects to Landon at the latter's hotel. They conferred for an hour.

"The splendid reception you have received must have convinced you you are welcome in New York," Smith told Landon. "And I want to tell you you have more friends among the Democrats of New York than you have any idea of."

Photographers, struggling to photograph Landon and Smith together, urged the two men to stand up.

"We're as close together as we can get," was Landon's retort, "and we will stick together, I hope, for a very long time to come."

The governor will go to Independence, Kans., his home, to vote next Tuesday, returning immediately afterwards to Topeka to await his fate at the hands of the American electorate.

In his Nassau address before 4500 persons in Mineola Theater, while 10,000 more listened from loud speakers outside

Hailing into the Roosevelt Social Security act as a "cruel disappointment" to the mass of wage-earners, who beginning January 1 must contribute from their pay envelopes, Governor Landon vowed to recommend to Congress a plan under which every needy person over 65 years of age will receive a pension. It will be paid for from a widely discussed tax on a pay-as-you-go basis.

And never again to part—Governor Alfred M. Landon told the photographers who won this choice pose at the Republican standard bearer of 1936 and the Democratic standard bearer of 1928, Governor Smith, leader of the Democrats who are still Democrats instead of New Dealers, paid a surprise visit to the Kansas Coolidge just as soon as Governor Landon had a chance to rest up after a tumultuous "victory" reception in New York City. Those look like victory smiles—Governor Landon's because he expects to win in a walk, and Governor Smith's, because he expects to win on a walk.

torrey" parade tonight with probably the most spontaneous and confident outpouring since Theodore Roosevelt was the Republican nominee.

ABLE STRATEGIST

Landon seems to have "timed" his campaign perfectly. He has "picked his spots" with uncanny judgment. Has ordered his attacks upon the New Deal administration with increasing vigor, and now there are the evidences of the "tidal wave" in the final, strategic and all-important days of the presidential battle.

The Kansas governor has established for himself the reputation of being perhaps the ablest strategist in the present generation of American politics. He has swept the East by his sturdy, unflinching fighting qualities.

Thus "swell" for Landon in national political sentiment began almost imperceptibly.

More observers now agree it started with his fighting attacks in Wisconsin and Minnesota against the New Deal trade-practices, which, he declared had thrown the American market wide open to alien foodstuffs from forced cultivation and the social security act, which he asserted, laid an unjust tax upon the wages of the American workingman.

COURAGEOUS, SINCERE

This was followed by Henry Ford's declaration of support for Landon, in which the famous industrialist pointed out that those people who contributed a tax out of their wages for thirty years would derive scarcely more than $25 a month "pensions" under the much over-heralded "security" act.

Landon continued to hammer away at the $50,000,000,000 national debt, illegal "red ink extravagance" and the reign of "political terrorism" allegedly imposed upon WPA workers by the New Deal.

In each speech, he appeared to deliver heavier punches.

While he is not a "sweet-voiced crooner" on the radio, the political experts say he constantly impressed the American people with both his inherent courage and sincerity.

By his fighting tactics Landon finally drove Roosevelt into a defensive corner.

He demanded that Roosevelt frankly explain to the country whether he still desires to revive NRA "and your other policies which would regiment the farmers, the working people and the business men."

PRESIDENT RETREATS

President Roosevelt retreated Tuesday from his onslaught.

At his press conference with the Washington newspapermen at the White House, the President for the first time in over three years refused to make a specific reply to the pointed questions leveled at him.

This was unlike the Roosevelt who campaigned dauntlessly four years ago when Mr. Hoover was on the run.

In consequence of Landon's spirited campaign, the Kansan occupied the favored space on the newspaper throughout the country this morning while the President seemed to be in the position of defensive retreat.

G. O. P. Workers Get GUARDS

HIRE 1000 DETECTIVES

A force of 1000 private detectives is being recruited by Republicans to guard Boston polling places on election day.

The Republican state committee considering the many threats to "drive Republican workers from the polls," announced this move today and commissioned several Boston detective agencies to organize the force for duty next Tuesday.

The private detectives will guard Republican workers on duty at polling places to protest the votes of "repeaters" and "mattress voters."

Fraudulent voting methods in Massachusetts will be exposed tonight over station WBZ at 7.15 p. m. by Attorney George L. Rabb, a member of the Republican state committee and long a vigorous opponent of election racketeering.

Rabb predicts that 200 repeaters will be "working" Boston polls alone, exclusive of the mattress voters. He urges voters to vote early Tuesday that "gorillas may be deprived of the opportunity to use your name."

"CASH" HANDOUT G. O. P. PARADE GIFT

Millions of "New Deal money" will be distributed by "Brain Trusters" to the thousands of spectators along the line of the big Republican torchlight parade and at the huge rally to follow at the Boston Garden next Saturday night.

The "stunt" has been tried out in Boston's streets and has made a big hit.

Clad in rags and gown, in burlesque of the money-spending of Togwell, Hopkins, Ickes, etc., youths peddle out the stage money from kegs and barrels, with lavish hands. Everybody wants some and everybody appreciates the keenness of the satire.

The novel campaign autotruck from which the "money" is distributed holds a replica of the United States Treasury. A corner has been chopped away by a New Deal "devil."

MANY SIGNS

On top of the building is a sign which reads: "$6,000,000,000 appropriated for relief. $2,500,000,000 actually spent for relief." Then there is a question mark asking where the $2,500,000,000 balance has gone, followed by the answer:

"Are you a politician—Have some."

Another sign emerging from a heap of coins carries the legend:

"We give away the taxpayers' money."

"General orders" for the formation of the big Saturday night parade, have been issued by General Daniel Needham, chief of staff to the parade marshal, John W. Haigis, the Republican candidate for governor.

The route of the parade will be Arlington, Boylston, Tremont, Temple Place, Washington, Canal and Causeway to Boston Garden.

The first speaker of the rally, Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican National Committee, in addition to carrying a message from Governor Landon, the presidential candidate, is expected to make some surprise announcements.

Great secrecy is being thrown around the speech, which, contrary to general practice, will be delivered without manuscript.

Eager requests for admission tickets, which are free, are flooding the Republican state headquarters at 11 Beacon street. Indications are that more than 20,000 persons will jam the Boston Garden.

In England, a lady recently mentioned frequently, gets a divorce after convincing "My Lord" Justice Hawke that her husband had been unfaithful, various witnesses swearing to the fact.

It seems strange that, under the circumstances, the lady must go "on probation," for six months closely observed by the royal proctor, behaving herself discreetly that her divorce may be confirmed at the end of the probation.

Nothing is said about the husband behaving himself, or any probation for him. Women's rights ladies will guess, accurately, that England's laws were made by men.

LANDON TAKES A WALK

Quits Guard For New York Stroll

New York, Oct. 29 (INS)—Governor Alfred M. Landon took a walk today.

Quite a walk it was, too, for he set out at 7.15 a. m. from his headquarters at the Murray Hill Hotel and was gone for 40 minutes. Police assigned to guard him were waved aside as the Republican Presidential nominee emerged from the lobby with another man, as yet unidentified.

"I'm just going for a walk," he said. "You fellows don't have to come along."

So the officers, in deference to the governor's wishes, trailed him at a respectable distance — about three blocks. Governor Landon didn't seem they were following him.

From all accounts the gentleman from Kansas had a lovely morning of it for the streets at the hour he chose to meander about Dagfred-on-the-Subway were relatively clear and he was not stopped by anyone.

The governor, in spite of his strenuous day yesterday, was up at 6.30 a. m. and at breakfast shortly afterward.

Melvin Purvis Tells:

Factor Case Trap Set by Police

By MELVIN PURVIS

There are many opportunities for mistake in photograph identification. I remember the case of a Special Agent who exhibited his commission card and credentials to a manager of a department store in Dallas, Texas, in connection with his search for a fugitive.

The department store manager examined the photograph of the Special Agent and immediately said, "That's the fellow."

During our investigation of this case we discovered Rudy Benter, a Filipino boy who was working as an elevator man at a hotel located on the North Side of Chicago. He did not like Willie Sharkey as the latter did not treat him with the consideration which he thought he was entitled to. Dr. Holoway, who lived at this hotel, and Dr. Soloway was a friend of the Factors, was a lory and was aiding in the negotiations, we later learned.

We immediately began supporting Rudy Benter in the trial in a downtown hotel where he was constantly kept under guard until the trial. All important witnesses were guarded to prevent their deaths at the hands of members of the gang who were still at large. Sharkey and deliberated the envelope to Benter. According to the kidnap letter, this envelope was supposed to contain Factors watch as a means of identification, and a coin.

When a man is kidnaped, gangs other than the one which actually kidnaped him, try to "horn in" and collect the ransom. For this reason it is necessary to use some means of identification, such as the watch mentioned above.

Our men and police, working jointly on the case, were still far from legal proof that the Touhys were involved. We talked to Factor many times, and as his nerves quieted themselves, he remembered, under pointed questioning, more and more salient information about his abduction.

In a kidnaping the victim holds the key to the case. Factor had been blindfolded, but he remembered sounds, steps, traffic noises, sometimes. Gradually from his pattern of memory we were able to build a picture of the room in which he had been held a prisoner. It was a two-story place with a fireplace around it. Factor had been kept in the basement; a woman had cooked his meals.

Factor had been taken only a short distance, he had calculated it to be only about 20 miles; the logical place to look for the kidnaper was in that part of Cook County where the Touhys held dominion, for that covered many square miles.

"Needle" Found

The house was a needle in a haystack, but we found it. The first assignment of the Special Agents was to canvass all real-estate agents in that part of the suburbs. We were interested in two-story houses with basements which had been rented in the two preceding months. One by one we checked them off, and persistence was rewarded. We found the house, the outside basement stairs that Factor remembered.

The house itself was deserted, but inside there was a treasure-trove of evidence. In the living room there were cartridge shells, newspapers, and other signs of recent habitation; there were also a fingerprint identical to an automatic shotgun. A round drum containing fifty machine-gun cartridges, several rounds of ammunition for a rifle similar to that which had emptied Factor's gun, a bolt bearing initialed "W. S." for Willie Sharkey, and a pair of clothes that had been sold to a man by the name of McFadden.

A few hundred feet from the house, upright in the ground, we discovered the footboard of an old wooden bed. It occurred to us that the strangely situated footboard might be a marker. In the shade of this footboard buried in the dirt were two one-gallon glass containers, filled with a tannish liquid which looked like weak, cold tea.

We pulled the stoppers out but the smell meant nothing to us. Nobody paid very much attention to this at the time, and the manner in which these one-gallon containers were handled definitely indicated our lack of knowledge of the nature of their contents. The jugs were sent to a chemist, and a few days later his report acquainted us with their content.

The cold tea was a compound of nitric acid and nitro-benzene, and the two gallons could have blown up the whole city of Chicago. Bank robbers call this liquid "soup"; they use it to burst open vaults. It is produced by the hazardous cookery of boiling dynamite.

How were we to destroy so much dangerous liquid in a safe manner? The experts told us that if we poured it on the ground and somebody walked across that part of the ground, the heel of their shoe would undoubtedly cause a spark and a terrific explosion. Someone advanced the idea that we might place this liquid on a small raft in the middle of Lake Michigan and shoot at it with a rifle, destroying it in that fashion. We were told that this would have destroyed all of the fish for many miles.

Liquid Destroyed

It therefore became necessary to discover the reagent which would neutralize and destroy the explosive quality of the liquid. We discovered that it would be necessary to purchase forty gallons of alcohol and many boxes of lye, which when mixed with the explosive, would destroy it. This was done, and only a small vial of the liquid was retained for possible use as evidence.

The Department of Justice policy of enforcing every possible source of information often produces amply and fruitless days. Ultimately, however, it pays dividends. Patience has done more than Providence to solve our cases. Once the Factor hideout was discovered, we refurbished again to the office of the real-estate firm which had rented it. An agent was assigned to investigate the references given by the mysterious renter. We expected the names to be fictitious. One of them wasn't.

Mrs. Clara Czech, a grey-haired woman, chatted pleasantly with a Special Agent on her front porch. Yes, Czech was her husband's name. She imagined those people had been pretty good tenants. Why?

Lest We Forget:

Morgenthau Like Rubber Stamp

By B. C. FORBES

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., has proved an ideal Rooseveltian bureaucrat.

Utterly innocent of any education, training, experience for his job, he has proved an obsequious rubber-stamp, as unresisting as any old-time Southern slave.

Out and out hero-worshipper, it has mattered not to young Morgenthau what his idol, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has proposed; the amateurish Morgenthau has enthusiastically acquiesced.

When President Roosevelt decided to amputate 41 cents from our American dollar, it was okay with his adorer, nominally at the head of the treasury.

When President Roosevelt decided to buy silver from the rest of the world at fantastic prices, again his faithful servitor applauded—even though the whole Orient was gravely upset thereby.

Whenever the big chief denounced the men of affairs who have done far more than politicians to win world leadership for America, his youthful henchman was ready to pipe up, "Me, too."

When he was pitchforked into a cabinet office for which he had no more financial training than a Hottentot, and although he himself, like Mr. Roosevelt, was born with a golden spoon in his mouth and never had to earn a living, he, aping his master, declared:

"Selfish wealth has been allowed to evade its obligations to the common welfare for the last time. All the skill of its clever lawyers is not going to do it any good now. The special-privilege class in this country is abolished so far as the treasury is concerned."

Given Big Farm

In seeking to stir up class hatred, President Roosevelt has had no more parrot-like supporter than Henry Morgenthau, Jr. Referring to the internal revenue forces, he proclaimed:

"They had been putting away rich gangsters and passing by respectable offenders. They had been called off so often that they had almost lost their punch."

Young Morgenthau proclaimed that his special objects of animosity would be the employing classes.

President Roosevelt's "ministers" have been dummies. They have been as obedient to his will as Congress originally was. Under this autocratic set-up, young Morgenthau has proved an ideal department head. He has not ventured an opinion of his own. He has been a perfect echo of his imperial master.

This is not astonishing in view of Morgenthau's background and financial inexperience.

Born of wealthy parents, he went to college with the idea of becoming an architect. But he quit long before graduating.

Not having fitted himself for any profession or business, he was presented by his parents with a 1400 acre farm, not far from Franklin Roosevelt's inherited estate.

Young Morgenthau became a "gentleman farmer." He has specialized in raising apples and milk.

When Roosevelt became governor of New York state he gave his youthful friend and neighbor a job as "conservation commissioner."

After going to Washington, Mr. Roosevelt took his "gentleman farmer" neighbor along as chairman of the Federal Farm Board.

Within eight months, the "gentleman farmer," who had never experienced any harder financial problem than spending the money supplied him by his affluent parents, was suddenly elevated to the position of a big and and under-secretary of the Treasury.

'Farmer' on Job

Six weeks later, to the astonishment of everybody, the "gentleman farmer" was hoisted to (nominal) command of the Treasury Department, with Cabinet rank.

Did Alexander Hamilton squirm in his grave?

When President Roosevelt recently proclaimed with characteristic bravado that the financial soundness of the United States government never was better, not a word of protest was voiced by the neophyte Secretary Morgenthau, notwithstanding that he must have known that any concern which year after year spends more than two dollars for each dollar of its income, and piles up unprecedented billions of debts, cannot be regarded as in enviable financial position.

Along with this, bear in mind the fact that Secretary Morgenthau himself informed the Red Cross, not so many days ago, that the only investments he would recommend for funds such as theirs was United States government securities—implying that the securities of the great industries of the nation, from which the government mainly derives its own funds, are not good.

And finally, does anybody yet know exactly what the "stabilization fund" has been used for—or what Secretary Morgenthau's "gentlemen's agreement" with France and Britain really is?

Can you picture any other important nation in the world selecting and retaining a "gentleman farmer," totally devoid of financial training, as the head of its treasury?

As taxpayers, don't we deserve something better from the nation's chief executive ?

Purvis Bares Factor Case Trap

were under arrest; the hideout had been discovered; there was every evidence that the law-enforcement agencies were on the job. Yet Factor began receiving a series of telephone calls demanding the balance of the ransom.

On the chance of getting a little more money, two members of the gang were willing to put their heads into a noose and trust to luck or prowess with arms to get them out. They took a chance that no wise criminal ever takes. I can think of only one explanation—that they believed Factor was so completely intimidated that he would not call police and Federal men to his assistance.

They did not know that we were listening in and tracing every telephone call received from them by Factor. They did not know that we were learning the addresses of the pay stations they were using, and rushing to those points every time they made a call, only to find that the call had been completed, and the kidnapers could not be kept on the wire long enough to allow us to get there and apprehend them.

Finally, after several conversations over the telephone and the use of many dilatory tactics to allow us to lay as complete a trap as possible, on August 12, six weeks after the kidnaping, Factor received his final instructions by telephone. The delivery of the money was set for the following day.

Trap Set

The kidnapers had demanded that the money be delivered that day, but Factor had told them that he would have some difficulty in obtaining that amount of money in so short a time, and the kidnapers had then agreed that the following day would be the day, if Factor found it could not be done on the 12th.

The ransom, wrapped in a newspaper, was to be intrusted to a Western Union messenger, who was to drive in a green Checker taxicab up lonely Manchester Road on the outskirts of Chicago. The cab was to stop just beyond a designated hamburger stand, and wait there until hailed.

Several of the Chicago police officials met in my office to plan the trap. This was a state case, and the federal government was anxious to assist in any manner possible. At a round table discussion of any proposed plan of importance, brilliant ideas are practically always advanced.

Some of these plans for the projected capture were objected to by some; they would create situations which could only be expected ultimately to form a part of a highly spectacular affair.

We proposed that one policeman be selected to don a Western Union messenger's uniform which was borrowed from that company. Another was to pose as the cab driver. We intended to take a Checker Cab driver into custody, so to say, and hold him peaceably until the affair was over. We planned to use his cab and his cap.

It was suggested by someone present that the officer wearing the Western Union messenger's uniform should leave his gun at headquarters because of the dangers to his person if the kidnapers were by chance to see it. I disagreed, and later on the morning of the payoff, I told the policeman that he should by all means take his weapon with him.

Grand Army Group Asks Red Air Ban

Chicago, Oct. 29—By unanimous vote of the directors of the National Daughters of the Grand Army of the Republic, protest against the granting of radio time to Karl Browder, Communist candidate for the presidency, has been wired to the Federal Communications Commission in Washington.

Mrs. Stella Bell of Milwaukee, national commander in chief, said in her message:

"Our fathers fought and gave their lives to keep this a free country, and it is unthinkable that preachers of revolution should be permitted to advocate, over the radio, the tearing down of our government."

The board also voted to instruct every one of its chapters to protest against the broadcasting of radio talks by Browder.

How New Payroll Tax Hits Workers

20 P. C. a Week Levied on Ford German Pay

WHAT will happen to the American workers' wages when the so-called Social Security Act begins to bite into his pay envelope was emphasized today by Henry Ford who released for publication in The Detroit Times pay envelopes of Ford workers in Germany.

Nine separate deductions, that took nearly 20 per cent of the workers' wages for "security," are included in the abstractions from the German workingman's pay by dictatorship.

These pay slashes, taken arbitrarily from the envelope before it reaches the wage-earner, just as the Roosevelt act will do, include the following: "Winter help fee," "German labor front fee," "citizen duty," "wage tax," "old age insurance," "sickness insurance" and "unemployment insurance."

NOT long ago Ford summed up the Roosevelt security act when he said:

"They are promising you 50 cents a day 20 years from now and calling it Social Security."

He emphasized that deductions would be made from pay envelopes without the worker being consulted.

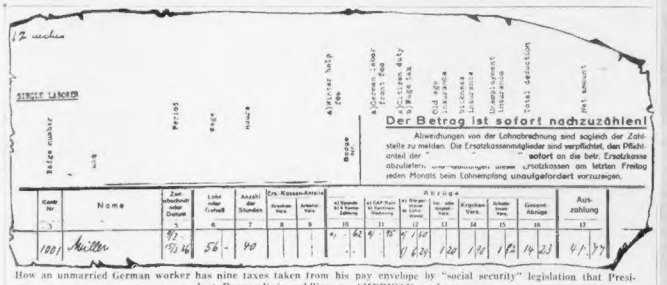
Ford knew what he was talking about, not from hearsay, or from the theory books of Tugwells and Frankfurters, but from the lesson of what "security" means written on the pay envelopes of his German workers.

WILLIAM J. CAMERON, spokesman for Ford, emphasized the "take" that an uncertain and insecure "security" is doing to the workers of Germany, when he held aloft the pay envelopes of Ford workers in Germany, at the Ford Sunday evening hour, and expressed the hope that an end would be put next week in the election booths to the extravagant administration threatening to do the same thing to the American workingman.

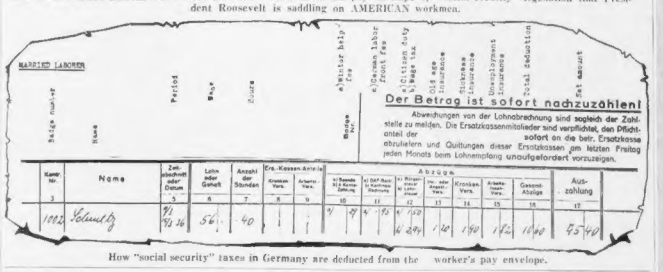
Of these pay-cuts Cameron said, in his talk on "The Horse and Buggy Age":

"In that far-off day a man's wages were his own. I have before me some pay envelopes from Germany. They are 12 inches long and 4 1-8 inches wide, not because so large a package is required to carry a German workingman's wage, but because so much space is needed to note the nine government deductions for as many different kinds of 'security.'

"Here is a man who earned 56 marks; he drew 42. Another earned 67 marks and drew 50. Another Another earned 86 marks and drew 64. The American pay envelope had not started on that course in the horse and buggy age. There were always strange Alice-in-Wonderland theories floating about, but they were advocated by long-haired men; short-haired men were not ensnared as yet; and they were never seriously set down as public statutes."



How an unmarried German worker has nine taxes taken from his pay envelope by "social security" legislation that President Roosevelt is saddling on AMERICAN workmen.



How "social security" taxes in Germany are deducted from the worker's pay envelope.

OF THE interference of the government in business and the devastating effect it would have had upon the country had not the Supreme Court of the United States said "No" to NRA, Cameron said:

"Henry Ford said, 'I will make a buggy that will go without a horse, and make it so cheap that those who cannot afford a horse and buggy can afford this.' There was no NRA to say to him, 'Here, you can't buy any machinery to start a shop unless Washington licenses you—there's too much machinery now.' That reactionary idea had not been invented. We had to wait 40 years before that brilliant idea dawned on the world.

"The common sense idea that built the stagecoach and the Conestoga wagon was left free to grow in the horse and buggy age and because it was free to grow it could grow out of it. Free enterprise is the spinal cord of any period of progress.

"When we sent men to public office we knew exactly why we sent them. It never occurred to us that an election would turn Lawyer Hank Smith or Storekeeper Hezekiah Butterfield into omniscient demigods over night. Hank and Hezekiah knew better, and so did we."

Coughlin Expects Tomato Shower

Springfield, Oct. 29 (INS)—Expecting, he said, to be "on the receiving end of a grocery store," the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest, left today for New York, where he speaks tonight at the Hippodrome.

"I hope the tomatoes will be fresh ones, because my speech will be startling," Fr. Coughlin said.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

A picture of us on Grandpa's birthday in the front hall
That's me pointing to the picture of Harry Wilken the first. He was my father's father and a grand distiller so they say. And so was Pop. That's my brother William Wilken to the right and my brother-in-law Tom to the left. I guess it's a better picture of our dog Jessie than of Grandpa Wilken!
Harry E. Wilken

Ever since Grandpa Wilken's day we've done nothing but make whiskey!

. . . and this is our Family's Recipe

Like as not when you taste our Family's whiskey, you're going to say it's got a tastiness to it more than any other whiskey you ever yet sampled. And maybe you'd like to know why that is. Well, for one thing—we've been making whiskey since goodness knows when. Harry Wilken the first—our Pop's father—made it. And Pop picked it up where he left off. And now we're making it. And everything our Family has learned in 50 years of distilling is in this one whiskey. It's our own Family's recipe—and you never tasted anything quite so tasty!

"DEAL PERILS COURT"—BLOCK

Special to Boston American

New York, Oct. 29—American liberties hang in the balance of the forthcoming election, Paul Block, the publisher, told members of the Kiwanis Club of New York at their weekly meeting at the Hotel McAlpin.

Not only is the Constitution in danger of revision, but the Supreme Court, last resort of the American people, stand in danger of being packed with New Deal sympathizers, Block said.

In relating a conversation with the President, on the day after the Supreme Court abolished the NRA, Block said that Roosevelt indicated to him that he did not consider the action of the court as final.

The publisher raised a titter from the Kiwanians when he read a list of projects in which the following sums, he said, have been spent by the government:

For a survey of the character of certain aromas in New York city, $208,000; for instruction in general housework in St. Louis, $500,000; two concrete shuffleboards and a giant checker board at Brookside Park, Ohio, $2000; to investigate how many artificial flowers and feathers are made by women in their homes in New York, $6300.

The publisher declared:

"There are dozens of vital reasons why the New Deal administration is a dangerous one for our people. Yet, important and serious as they are, none of them, in my mind, are as dangerous as Mr. Roosevelt's desire to weaken our Constitution and to destroy the independence of the Supreme Court."

MADRID REDS GETS PLANES, ARMS TO HELP TURN TIDE

Madrid, Oct. 29 (AP)—Spain's government announced cryptically today it has "everything necessary for victory," a phrase generally interpreted to mean the defenders of Madrid had obtained sufficient tanks, airplanes and other war materials to meet insurgent besiegers on even terms.

(In the newest round of international charges and counter-charges, Italy yesterday accused Russia of sending men and war material to Madrid on 20 occasions during the current month.)

Coincident with the unelaborated announcement made by Premier Francisco Largo Caballero, the government radio informed the populace not to be alarmed if many planes appeared over the capital today.

The planes, the broadcast said, would be loyal aircraft in review formation.

Later, the prime minister, in a proclamation to the militia forces, called upon the troops to make a supreme effort to drive the insurgents from the Madrid area, and said:

"The government now has tanks and aviation."

Largo Caballero's assurance imparted a distinct atmosphere of optimism to residents who had feared the insurgents, so far superior in all equipment.

At the same time, officers commanding front line units reported government militiamen were "impatient" to launch a new counter-offensive with their backs to the gates of Madrid.

The government hoped to pry the insurgent military pincers wide open and demoralize the besiegers in one gigantic thrust.

Modest advices trickling in from the battlefront south of the capital indicated a government offensive had begun at 6 a. m. at Seseña, that the town of Torrejon had been recaptured and that the important highway point of Illescas was being approached.

A series of advances by government troops in the extreme northern and eastern sectors also were claimed by the Madrid authorities.

Air Censorship Upheld by Board

Reds Shoot Down 17 of Rebel Planes

Madrid, Oct. 29 (AP)—Tumultuous waves of rejoicing swept victory-starved Madrid today as the government announced Socialist bombing planes had destroyed at least 17 Fascist aircraft "Blackbirds of Death."

Taut-nerved women, with emotions keyed near the breaking point by daily raids over the capital, wept tears of "joyous vengeance" on reading the news.

Italian Submarines Set To Attack Spain Ports

Paris, Oct. 29 (AP)—The Spanish embassy announced today it had confidential information that a fleet of Italian submarines was awaiting sailing orders to Gaeta, Italy, to establish a blockade of the Catalonian coast and perhaps attack the Spanish government stronghold.

Eight submarines, he said, have been painted with the red and gold colors of the Spanish insurgents at Gaeta, 45 miles northwest of Naples.

The Spanish spokesman also reiterated previous charges that Italy had landed a large number of troops on the Balearic Island of Mallorca, which, he said, may be destined for use against Catalonia.

SOVIET BACKS DOWN ON BOLT

London, Oct. 29 (AP)—The bitter issue over neutrality in Spain shifted today from the non-intervention committee to the halls of the British Parliament.

The possibility of another crisis appeared to have been averted although dissension persisted after the neutrality committee's long, heated session yesterday. In brief, it left the status of the "hands-off-Spain" accord with:

1—Italy and Portugal acquitted of Russia's charges of having given the Spanish insurgents military support.

2—Soviet charges against Germany in abeyance until the Reich, collecting additional data, made a full reply.

3—Portugal adamant against a suggestion from Moscow that naval vessels of one or more non-intervention nations control Portuguese ports to prevent violations of the agreement.

4—Russia subscribing to the proposal of Lord Plymouth, British chairman of the neutrality committee, that control be established over Spanish ports and frontiers to assure enforcement of the agreement.

5—Russia pledged to remain in the committee despite the dismissal of its charges against Italy and Portugal and rejection of its plan for policing neutrality.

6—Moscow, accuser of three nations, itself accused of violations in counter-charges filed by Italy.

After the "battle of notes," in which the Soviet, lone-handed supporter of the Madrid government, was defeated, the committee adjourned until next week. But the Soviet's decision not to bolt the pact in the interim assured continuation at least of technical non-intervention.

IN THE WORLD OF FAST, TENSE, HAZARDOUS ACTION, IT'S — for Digestion's sake smoke Camels!

HEALTHY nerves and good digestion are priceless assets today. Our fast-moving, high-geared way of living puts us all under a strain at times. You'll find Camels a welcome companion along the way.

Camels set you right! With mild, fine-tasting Camels you get an invigorating "lift" in energy when you need it most. And Camels assist digestion by inducing a freer flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—so important to get digestion off to a good start and bring a sense of well-being after eating. Enjoy Camels freely at mealtime—or any time. Camels do not get on the nerves or irritate sensitive throats.

HUMAN CANNON BALLS. Mario and Hugo Zacchini stand terrific strain. "You'll find us both enjoying Camels," says Hugo, "they make food digest better." And Mario adds, "Camels set us right too."

AMERICA'S NO. 1 TEST PILOT. Lee Gehlbach says: "I smoke Camels with my meals and afterwards for digestion's sake. And when I say that Camels don't get on my nerves it means a lot!"

DARING ARTISTE. Petite Vera Kimris whirls upside down from a trapeze. "Smoking Camels eases the strain," she says. "So I'm always sure to enjoy my food."

GLIDER CHAMP. "Gliding is nerve-shattering," says Mrs. R. Holderman. "I turn to Camels at mealtime. They bring my digestion back—help me enjoy food."

SIR HUBERT WILKINS says: "An explorer needs good digestion. Camels are my stand-by—they add gusto to my meals and bring me a great feeling of comfort and well-being afterwards."

PLUCKY DARE-DEVIL. Attractive Una Kimmey, girl parachute jumper, says: "I'm a Camel smoker. Camels make my food taste better and help my digestion. They're mild and easy on my throat. I can enjoy them all I want."

BRIDGE PAINTER. "Sure it's risky work," says Walter Fera, "but I never notice it. My nerves are healthy. My digestion good! I smoke Camels."

MIDGET-AUTO RACER. Curly Mills likes the way Camels help digestion. "It's natural for me to smoke Camels at mealtime for digestion's sake," he says. "And I top off my meals with more Camels. Camels don't get on my nerves."

PARACHUTE JUMPER. Joe Crane says: "You can't beat Camels for flavor. And Camels help stimulate my digestion!"

FIRST in the Indianapolis Auto Classic in 1935, Kelly Petillo says: "I smoke Camels for me every time! They keep my digestion in shape."

FLYING NEWSREEL CAMERAMAN. "I smoke a lot of Camels," says Douglas Dupont. "They don't upset my nerves. And Camels go well with catch-as-catch-can meals. They aid my digestion!"

SCIENTIST. Otis Barton—inventor of the "bathysphere"—explains: "I get a 'lift' with Camels. And they make my food taste better and digest easier too."

STEEPLEJACK Joe Bork says: "Camel's mildness means a lot to me. I can't chance jangled nerves. Camels set me right! And they help my digestion too."

DEEP-SEA DIVER. Hank Siemer likes to eat hearty—even after hours spent in probing the murky ocean depths. Hank says: "Me and food get along swell together as long as I have Camels to smoke with my meals."

THE WINNER! Clayton Bishop stood terrific strain in winning the Albany-New York Motor Boat Marathon. "Camels are a swell aid to digestion," he says.

EAST BOSTON YOUTH ADMITS 14 BREAKS

An East Boston youth of 21, a former inmate at Lyman School, now on parole from Shirley, today admitted 14 housebreaks and three attempted store breaks, members of the Special Service Squad reported.

He was held for further questioning and investigation after police recovered three watches he is alleged to have pawned. The watches and two stolen rings were said to have netted him only $1.45.

The youth was picked up outside of an all-night movie theater in Scollay Square by Sergeant Frank R. Burke and Special Officers Abraham Moss, Leo Hearns and Daniel Donahue. They reported they found an ice pick in his pocket.

Breaks the prisoner is charged with having admitted were in Orleans, Chelsea, Brook Gold, Bremen and Decatur streets. One was described as the first floor of the house in which he lives.

Two attempted breaks were made at North End haberdashery shops, a third at a Washington street jewelry store, police said.

The prisoner is reputed to have described how dextrous he is with the ice-pick, being able to open paddocks, unlock latches and force windows.

Daylight Meteor Seen In Michigan

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 29 (AP)—Residents of Benton Harbor reported today that a meteor blazed through the sky with a bluish-green light at 8 p. m., and disappeared in the northwest, over Lake Michigan. Farmers at Riversides, seven miles north of Benton Harbor, also reported seeing the light.

'Wally' Hides Until Time For Sailing

London, Oct. 29 (U3)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson was expected today to leave England shortly on a leisurely trip abroad, possibly to Bermuda, to pass the time until her divorce decree from Ernest Simpson becomes final and she is free to marry King Edward.

For the present, however, she has retired to the seclusion from which she emerged only long enough to testify against her husband and win her preliminary decree of divorce at Ipswich.

No one would admit whether she had resumed residence at Beech House, Felixstowe or at Cumberland terrace, London, but it was generally believed she had returned to her town house.

She will be protected from a curious public by the strong right arm of a detective detached from the King's personal staff, and she will be spared excess publicity by a virtual censorship imposed on themselves by London publishers.

King Edward, meanwhile, announced he would give the first private dinner of his reign tomorrow night at Buckingham Palace in honor of Foreign Minister Lamas of Argentina.

30,000 Seek Jobs in Postoffice

More than 30,000 applications for the substitute clerk and carrier examination in the Postoffice Department have been recorded at the United States Civil Service Commission in the Federal building.

Although the examination will not be held until early spring, a force of men and women will be kept busy in the office of the Civil Service Commission checking applications and mailing necessary papers.

GUARD THREE WITNESSES IN PROBE

Under police guard in their homes today, were at least three "mystery" witnesses, ready to testify for the state against the alleged slayer of Mrs. Grayce Griffin Asquith, "Merry Widow" of Weymouth.

Appearance of these witnesses before tomorrow's special session of the Norfolk County grand jury will result, police predicted, in a speedy indictment of Mrs. Asquith's alleged killer.

The suspect will be named to the grand jury by District Attorney Dewing, investigators said, and the prosecutor will explain that the accused man's arrest for the crime has only been delayed in furtherance of certain angles of the official probe.

Identity of the three witnesses whose testimony is to be the state's "ace in the hole" against the alleged killer was being kept secret today.

The three were protected against unauthorized interviews by police guards in plain clothes.

A relay of officers was assigned to each of the witnesses' homes.

AFTER MURDER, WHERE?

At least one of the "mystery" witnesses was known today to be a doctor, a private practitioner whose name has not, thus far, been mentioned in the case.

Another of the unidentified witnesses is a woman, the Boston Evening American learned.

Her testimony will have allegedly important bearing on the disappearance of missing John Albert Lyons, Back Bay war veteran, who was one of the ill-fated "Merry Widows" admirers.

Third of the "mystery" witnesses was reported today to be a man whose story—changed and corrected since it was first told—will indicate that the murder suspect's time for 18 hours after the killing is unaccounted for.

A tip to the effect that Lyons, missing "key" man in the "Merry Widow" murder investigation, had been seen alive near his former Back Bay home, caused a temporary flurry of excitement at police headquarters today.

Detectives soon located the person who had given the information by telephone. He was a taxi-driver. He admitted he had "just heard a rumor." Police completely discounted the report.

Search for Lyons' body in water-filled Quincy quarry holes was continued today by Diver Fred Wallace.

He began exploration of a pit in the depths of which, a few years ago, police found the body of a Boston gang slaying victim.

20 STATE WITNESSES

Following a conference with Captain John F. Stokes of the state police, District-Attorney Dewing stated:

"Although I cannot indicate at this time what the evidence is in our possession, we have much stronger evidence than before, Dewing had previously announced a "preponderance of evidence."

"There will be 20 witnesses for the state. Several of them will be surprise witnesses. Two of them will be women."

Dewing hinted that the presentation of witnesses and the evidence secured by the chemists and crack detectives assigned to the case would not take more than four hours.

Moulage casts of the head and legs of the murder victim, prepared by Medical Examiner William J. Brickley, will be shown the grand jury to establish corpus delicti.

Dewing intimated today that findings of City Chemist Frank Strahan, and State Chemist Joseph V. Walker, have clinched the state's case against the accused slayer.

Dover Police Chief In Roxbury Court

Chief of Police Wendell Higgins, of Dover, today pleaded not guilty in Roxbury court, to charges of operating a car while under the influence of liquor, driving so as to endanger and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to police, Higgins' car is alleged to have struck a machine operated by John Moley, of Dorchester, in 83 Intervale street, Back Bay, Sept. 19th.

The case was continued to November 13 and Chief Higgins was released on his own recognizance.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

A Challenge to New Deal:

James Roosevelt Asked 10 Questions by Woman

Her challenge for a debate unanswered, Miss Florence Birmingham today called upon James Roosevelt to publicly answer 10 questions concerning his own activities and those of his father before and after the assumption of the office of President.

Miss Birmingham is a prominent Democrat and sister of the late Representative Lee M. Birmingham, for many years Democratic leader in the House on Beacon Hill.

"As an example, he was asked why his father abandoned the 1932 Democratic platform, which he accepted 100 per cent. There could be no element of surprise in this question, yet the public is still waiting for an explanation.

"One night recently in Gardiner, James got away from his keepers, was reliably reported to be closed that his father, if would try to make the permanent through the n of a constitutional ment. When the storm ne ran 56 cover saying he spouted, ly he will agree that the ty must have some s on the subject. And he se is here as his father's ssin, it is not unreasonable ose that in the heat of the James voiced the s he had heard his father

"Perhaps he will tell us whether or not his father intends to make the AAA permanents and if so how many little pigs are to be constitutionally slaughtered this time?

"Since the President's eldest son will not accept my debate challenge, I now ask him to tell the public the answers to these questions, which I have put in writing:

"1—When, prior to March, 1933, did you have any source of income?

"2—Assuming that I were the son of the man elected President in 1932, and assuming further that I never had any visible source of income until a short time prior to the date that my father took office, and that soon after I started to make large sums of money—assuming these facts—would I not be an 'economic royalist' and 'a money changer?'

WHO SOLD IDEA?

"3—If I were an officer and director of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation, commonly known as 'Canco,' and if I lent my name to public advertisements of this corporation, and if the price of the preferred stock fell in a short period from 45 to 1, representing a loss to investors of almost $19,000,000 —assuming these facts—would I not be an 'economic royalist' and 'a prince of privilege'?

"3a—Who sold your father the idea of creating the 'more abundant life' by destroying tons of foodstuffs?

"3b—Does your father not realize that legislation like the NRA and AAA fooled only the small business men and persons who could not afford to hire competent counsel?

"3c—Was not the abolition of the two-thirds rule in the Philadelphia convention part of a deal for nominating a presidential candidate in 1940? If not, what conceivable reason can you advance for the abolition of that time honored rule at a convention completely dominated by the administration?

"3d—Is it not true that if the Wall Street interests, so vaguely characterized by your father, are guilty of 'misusing stockholders' money in fighting him' as charged, they could easily be sent to prison?

"3e—Is it not true that were any brokerage house or other established business guilty of the bookkeeping methods your father permits in the postal and other departments, the individuals responsible for such methods would be subject to prosecution?

"10—In praise of the social objective of the administration, just why should this stuff be mailed at the expense of the taxpayers, like, for example, the franked card sent out by Senator Bennett Champ Clark? Also matter concerning banks by Sam Rayburn, member of Congress?"

MISS FLORENCE BIRMINGHAM

poration I were described as the vice president of another large corporation—the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland—and if the purpose of this Canadian corporation were to sell shares of stock to the American people to be exchanged for German marks ($60,000,000 of them), and if the advertised intent of this Canadian corporation, after it got these German marks, was to take advantage of the present money stringency in Germany and of the purchasing power of the mark, which is far greater than is reflected by exchanged quotations—assuming these facts —would I not be an 'economic royalist' and 'a money changer?'

WHO SOLD IDEA?

"4—If I were an officer and director of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation, commonly known as 'Canco,' and if I lent my name to public advertisements of this corporation, and if the price of the preferred stock fell in a short period from 45 to 1, representing a loss to investors of almost $19,000,000 —assuming these facts—would I not be an 'economic royalist' and 'a prince of privilege'?

"5—Who sold your father the idea of creating the 'more abundant life' by destroying tons of foodstuffs?

"6—Does your father not realize that legislation like the NRA and AAA fooled only the small business men and persons who could not afford to hire competent counsel?

"7—Was not the abolition of the two-thirds rule in the Philadelphia convention part of a deal for nominating a presidential candidate in 1940? If not, what conceivable reason can you advance for the abolition of that time honored rule at a convention completely dominated by the administration?

"8—Is it not true that if the Wall Street interests, so vaguely characterized by your father, are guilty of 'misusing stockholders' money in fighting him' as charged, they could easily be sent to prison?

"9—Is it not true that were any brokerage house or other established business guilty of the bookkeeping methods your father permits in the postal and other departments, the individuals responsible for such methods would be subject to prosecution?

"10—In praise of the social objective of the administration, just why should this stuff be mailed at the expense of the taxpayers, like, for example, the franked card sent out by Senator Bennett Champ Clark? Also matter concerning banks by Sam Rayburn, member of Congress?"

SECURITY, FARM ACTS DEFENDED BY PRESIDENT

Republican leadership is still the same."

"It still preaches the same heresy—class against class and region against region," he declared.

"You do not need me to tell you this. They say it themselves, loudly, in their market-basket campaign."

He renewed his argument that the farmer and city dweller are interdependent, that their well-being must be worked out on a basis of higher prices for agricultural products which will enable the farmer to buy the products of urban workers.

"The simple fact of our dependence upon each other," he said, "was either unknown or entirely ignored by the Republican leaders of the post-war period. Their policy was to give definite help to the top and to utter pious hopes for the bottom. Forty years of that brought the inevitable crash."

LAUDED BY MINERS

Earlier, a crowd estimated at 55,000 jammed into Wilkes-Barre Miners' Field to hear President Roosevelt assail "a handful of employers, politicians and newspapers" who, he said, were attempting to mislead and coerce labor in connection with next week's election.

Introduced by Governor Thomas Kennedy, himself a mine union official, presided at the John Mitchell day celebration. He introduced John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, now leading the committee on industrial organization and labor's non-partisan league, both supporting Mr. Roosevelt for re-election.

Lewis, in introducing Mr. Roosevelt, referred to him as "the savior of the country and the champion of the people."

The President used fighting language in a denunciation of "pay-envelope propaganda" by employers opposing him.

CHARGES SECURITY PLOT

He charged that employers were attempting to force their workers to vote for the Landon-Knox ticket in a selfish desire to scuttle the Social Security Act because it would cause the payment of higher dollars for every one the workingman put up.

Denouncing "the latest attempts of a handful of employers to mislead and coerce labor with regard to the Social Security Act," Mr. Roosevelt said:

"No employer has a right to put his political preferences in the pay envelope. That is coercion even if he tells the whole truth.

"These propagandists are driven in their desperation to the contemptible, unpatriotic suggestion that some future Congress will steal these insurance funds for other purposes. If they really believe what they say in the pay envelopes, they have no confidence in our form of government or its permanence. It might be well for them to move to some other nation in which they have greater faith."

YOU CAN SLEEP IN NEW AUTO

The new Nash and her sister Lafayette are on the scene at the Nash New England Company, 640 Commonwealth avenue, Boston. This is their 1937 debut.

The 1937 version of both the Nash and Lafayette is roomier and bigger. Base price of this series is $855, H. G. Paine, vice-president of the Nash New England Company has stated.

The aristocrat of the Nash line is the Nash Ambassador Eight. For technical details, it is built on a 125 inch wheelbase, powered by the Nash eight cylinder, valve-in-head twin ignition motor which develops 105 horsepower, and fitted with luxurious appointments.

There is the Nash Ambassador Six and the Nash Lafayette. From bumper to bumper, the 1937 models sweep in one graceful curve.

The popular "sleeping car" feature of the Nash of 1936 has been placed on the Ambassador series for 1937, improved and refined. In all 1937 Nash-Lafayette cars a six-foot four-inch double bed may be made up in the back seat in 10 minutes.

To protect passengers entering or leaving the cars during rainy weather, drip mouldings have been placed over the doors in all models. No draft ventilation has been built into all Nash cars.

Safety glass is standard equipment without extra cost on the two Ambassador series. Wind-shields and vent windows of safety glass are standard on the Nash-Lafayette "400" models.

The Senator Says:

Rexford Tugwell's Poetry Stirs Boston Cabman

When The Senator is warped into the tavern, who do the boys see bobbing in his wake but Sniffy the Cabman that is a younger brother of Sniffy the Cabman and even worse news.

"Senator," says Timmy, "if you will prop him up and he does not start sounding off, I will overlook his presence."

THE SENATOR

"Timmy," says The Senator, "I cannot understand why you do not leave Gertrude Stein."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "unfortunately you do not have any choice. Disregard it. The Massachusetts Progressive Committee, which is supporting President Roosevelt, is busy discouraging Democrats who think Roosevelt has a chance in this state.

"This is the outfit run by George W. Coleman, A. Frank Reel, Professor Schlesinger and others. It has just broadcast a notice that the latest Gallup poll shows Landon leading here . . ."

In the Way

"I am sick of a nation's stenches, I am sick of propertied czars!" cries Sniffy the Calman.

"Senator," says Timmy, "Tugwell or no Tugwell, I am not going to have him that way in here."

"Timmy," says The Senator, "consider his elation at having suddenly discovered, after 79 years of cab driving, that he is a born scholar. Pay no attention.

"The Governor Jim were not so busy he would probably have John Sawtelle on the mat for an explanation of why Sawtelle's Intercity Club refused to indorse Tom Buckley for auditor, Frank Kelly for lieutenant-governor, Uncle Dan Coakley for the council and Doc Santosuosso for secretary of state.

"Sawtelle is supposed to be an active member of Governor Jim's campaign committee and some will be inclined to put the blame on Governor . . ."

"I have dreamed my great dream of their passing; I have gathered my tools and my charts," recites Sniffy the Calman.

"Senator," says Timmy, "did Tugwell really write this thing he is saying?"

All for Kelly

"Timmy," says The Senator, "it is the truth. The poem Sniffy is saying is the great brain child of the great brain trailer. But I implore you to be broadminded. As I was saying, friends of Kelly have announced that 24 members of the Intercity Club have resigned as a result of this.

"Kelly by the way is putting up one of the best of the Democratic campaigns, and all of the Democratic candidates who were afraid to be seen on the same platform with him two weeks ago are now shouting his praises, Governor Jim and Son Jimmy Roosevelt included. Son Jimmy is even marching arm-in-arm with Kelly in the all-for-one act . . ."

It is just at this point that Sniffy the Calman gives the clutch on The Senator's arm and declaims as follows:

"I am strong!"

"Senator," says Timmy, "I do not go for any poetry whether it is Longfellow or Tugwell. Give him no encouragement by kindly ignoring him and let us have the news."

"Well, Timmy," says The Senator, "Mayor Freddy is back from Battle Creek, and certain Republicans have tried to pressure him into going on the radio in opposition to his old arch enemy, Governor Jim.

"He will not do it and leave himself open to the possibility of bad after effects, and is very wise."

Well Made, Too

"I am big and well made!" booms Sniffy the Calman.

"Timmy," says The Senator, "try to overlook it because as he explained it to me this poem by Tugwell is the only thing he has been able to memorize since the age of three. Let it go.

"There is a lot of comment and speculation abroad on Charlie Hurley's praise of Uncle Dan Coakley and what effect this will have on Charlie Hurley Republicans and some Charlie Hurley Democrats who do not . . ."

"I am muscled, lean and nervous," shouts Sniffy the Calman.

"Senator," says Timmy, "his nervousness is only the shakes. If that is a Tugwell poem I will take a drink."

N. H. DEMOCRAT 'TAKES WALK'

Concord, N. H., Oct. 29—Democratic leaders throughout the nation are still "taking a walk" with John B. Jameson, for 40 years a leader of the party in this state and the latest to find New Deal policies irreconcilable with party beliefs.

"For the first time in my life, I find myself unable to support the national Democratic ticket," Jameson declared in a letter to Chairman Robert C. Murchie of the state committee, tendering his resignation from that body.

"I do not believe the New Deal program is for the best interests

BUT NOT FOR ALL-DAY WEAR

Match'd you can the virtues of sweaters and knitted clothes and save them for sunny mornings in the country or bleak, wintry afternoons played bridge

You ought to think more of your hostess than to appear at her house in a knitted frock, we'd on judge. Knits might be all right if it were a bridge party in the country if you weren't sure how warm your hostess house was going to be

Silver Tag

I like it because it is all gold and because everyone is tired of the same old black and gold combination said one judge

It would be heavenly under a mink coat said another

Lucky for You
—It's a Light Smoke!

When Fun and Smoking Last Way Into the Night...

On party nights—or whenever you do a lot of smoking—you'll find that Luckies, a light smoke, are a comfort as well as a joy! For since Luckies are a light smoke, there's no wear and tear on your throat. Luckies wear well...they're the only cigarette that's "Toasted"... your protection against irritation. So tomorrow, or better, right now, reach for a Lucky—rich with the taste of fine center-leaf tobacco. It's a good morning smoke [illegible] taste. And it's a good night smoke [illegible] gentle. It's never too late for a light smoke . . . never too late for a Lucky!

Imports Rise

PROSPERITY

Attracts NEW Concerns

By B. C. FORBES

Important American and other corporations are flocking to Britain to establish branch offices there. Last year 1355 new factories made their appearance in Britain. This year the movement has continued spiritedly.

One result of the prosperity which is at present being enjoyed in Great Britain has been the tendency of foreign concerns to establish branch factories in order to take advantage of the rising spending power of the people.

It has been observed that human beings tend to emigrate, and so much business things are [illegible] because they are [illegible] country of destination. The same appears to apply to businesses. While trade conditions remain good in Britain it is probable that the number of foreign companies that establish branches here will remain on the upgrade.

Battling Duseks To Baptise Casey At Boston Garden

ONE NEEDS NO CLAIRVOYANCE to detect the ...k of impending riot in tomorrow evening's congress o. human omelets at the Boston Garden. This will be the occasion of Steve "one man gang" Casey's formal introduction into simian society in a clinical clinch with Wally Dusek, one of the Bohemian family of impolite linoleum loungers who are the laboratory guinea pigs of the industry.

Before the entertainment is over Steve will be required to tangle with two (2) Duseks in one of those imaginative sequences which winds up with members of the entire male ensemble tagging each other with round robin busts on the cheekbone, the crowd coming down to beg pieces of the fight and the house dicks storming the ramparts.

MORE CASH CALAMITY

ANOTHER LITTLE JOB FOR THE UNDERTAKER ... carnival at Narragansett's frost-bite meeting, where hopeful New England horse addicts tried for 20 per cent on their money by investing in a "cinch" race. Two-thirds of the $31,000 wagered in the win pool was on Pompoon's button. Unlike the noted wastrel horse, Discovery, which squandered so much rent and grocery money for faithful backers, Pompoon did not run a total bankrupt. It finished second to a steed with the symbolic title of Reaping Reward which reaped to the tune of $25.20 for every $2 ... it did least.

Head-skilled professional bettors played the safer percentage of betting Pompoon to show, content with comparatively measly sums and the 10 per cent required by state law to be paid on each ticket cashed.

SHREWD GUESS CONCERNING THE ST. LOUIS' Cardinals' threat to sell Dizzy Dean to one of the lesser National League clubs for string, stamps or something out of the cellar, is that Branch Rickey is trying to Christianize Diz before talking next year's salary terms. Being already the highest money man among major league pitchers, and coming on a term solo for more cash, Rickey trusts to out-talk Dean by threatening him with an unprecedented cut and heavy reductions in his contract.

GELINAS 6-5 CHOICE TO DEFEAT RICCOTTI

RIVALS Clash at ARENA

HARD BATTLE PROMISED

Pro boxing jumps into its third week tonight when Joe Gelinas, Athol, and Joe Riccotti, Boston, toss leather in the ten-round main bout at the Boston Arena.

Gelinas will weigh in at about 150 pounds, while Riccotti tips the scales at 149 poundr. The fight has all the earmarks of a grudge scrap and should be a ding-dong battle from bell to bell.

Gelinas, the idol of Athol, will enter the ring a slight favorite at 6-5. Riccotti does not lack for backers, however, for the North End Italian is one of the most popular scrappers of that section since Sammy Fuller was their pride and joy.

Since Riccotti is the only man that Gelinas has ever failed to knock down at least once, there is considerable speculation as to whether or not he can perform this trick tonight.

In their last battle, Riccotti was handicapped by a severely cut eye, but despite this he fought his way to a well earned draw. With everything equal tonight, Riccotti feels that he has the chance of a lifetime to even up his old score with Gelinas.

In the eight-round semifinal, Johnny Dube, Haverhill, and Wildcat Carter, Boston, are slated to mix it up. Dube has the distinction of being able to boast a five-round knockout victory over the well-known Tom Grady. Both boys are lightweights.

Irish Johnny Smith, popular Quincy lad, will meet Ralph Salvo, Salem, in a six rounder. Al Luciano, Lynn, and Jerry LaBella, East Boston, will finish out the other half of the twin six. Luciano, who has been going great guns recently, has a hard earned verdict over Steve Savchuk.

Charlie Ersey, the other half of Athol's "battling hatters," will meet Mike Kaplan, Dorchester, in a four rounder. In the first four-round bout of the evening, Phil Salvatore, Chelsea, will have it out with Dominick Colantinia, Walpole.

GEORGIE MARTIN DYNAMITER IN THE RING

Martin's K.O. List Now At 50

By SAM COHEN

Georgie Martin of Charlestown, former Boston Evening American newsboy, is the Joe Louis of amateur boxing.

With a record of 50 knockouts in 50 amateur bouts his next goal is the All-America boxing championship, the New England finals of which will be contested at the Boston Arena, November 2.

Martin was the sensation of the first elimination tournament in the All-America series at the Arena two weeks ago and promises to become the holder of the 127-pound title in this national classic, which is being staged by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Very gently and very well mannered outside of the ring, Martin, inside the squared circle, is the most vicious and most deadly puncher in amateur circles.

Few will forget his performances of two weeks ago when he knocked out McGrath of Newton and then gave the very classy Oscar Suggs of Newport a shellacking in the final bout of the evening.

For a free swinging fighter, Martin is a sharpshooter. While it appears to many, his punches are lucky swings, few realize or see the actual punches he propels when delivering a knockout blow. He doesn't drop his opponents with these swings, but sets them up for that straight and short right hand punch which has never failed him.

Not only can he sock with his right hand, but his left is equally as dangerous.

He says, in a very modest way, that only on two occasions did he throw a right hand punch this season, and on both occasions he scored a single punch knockout.

Martin has been boxing in the amateurs for about a year and a half. He plans to turn professional after this season.

Speaking about the All America tournament Martin said:

"The All America boxing championship is my goal. That is a REAL title to shoot for and I would rather win that than any other boxing championship I know of."

Georgie says he owes a lot of his success to Joe Costello.

GEORGIE MARTIN, 147-pound amateur boxing king, who will compete in the New England finals of the All-America boxing tournament being sponsored by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser. A gentle, an apparently harmless looking person in street attire, Georgie becomes the fistic crusher once he steps into the ring. He is one of the most pleasing boxers to watch in action and ranks as the K. O. king of the amateurs.

N. E. All-America Title Prospects Good

Fight experts who have been following the fortunes of the All-America amateur boxers in the two tryouts at the Arena are confident that those who survive the finals at the Arena on November 9 will be able to hold their own against the stiff competition they may expect in the Eastern sectional championships at New York.

There is a wealth of talent of exceptional ability waiting to tee off in the Arena finals.

One who stands out prominently is Abe Denner, the West End blond, who survived the opening night preliminary in clean cut victory fashion.

Denner is conceded to be as good if not better than many of the pros now showing off in eastern fight emporia.

He can hit with both hands, handles himself like a true veteran, jabs well and knows how to protect himself.

So that should Denner win the trip to New York he should stand a better than average chance of returning home with the eastern title tucked away.

All of the runners-up and winners of the two previously held tryouts are continuing to train faithfully for the finals.

The winners and runners-up of the November 9 show will receive Gruen Precision wrist watches, gifts of the Gruen Watch Company of Time Hill, Cincinnati, and its associated New England dealers.

The winners will be sent to New York's Hippodrome with their expenses paid.

"Thanks, New England," said 81-year-old Julius Kessler recently, when this picture was being taken. "You folks haven't forgotten how good good whiskey tastes. All the barmen say I'm giving you just as fine whiskey today as I did 20 and 30 years ago. You deserve it."

BE KIND TO THE BARTENDER WHO'S KIND TO YOU!

Kessler's is a premium-priced 90-proof whiskey. To taste so rich and treat men so well, it has to be.

But the "good fellows" behind the bar keep right on handing it out at the old-fashioned low price—as a bonus to please you "good fellows" in front. They know Kessler's gives you a fine pick-up without kick-back.

Julius Kessler knows more about whiskey than any other living man. His costlier special blending process assures you that Kessler's pleasant "Good evening" will mean a bright "Good morning". Try Kessler's and prove it.

Maroons Defeat Bruins, 3 to 1

St. John, N. B., Oct. 20—Montreal Maroons evened their series with Boston Bruins here when Thomas Gorman's aggregation scored a 3-1 victory over the Hose clan in the second game of the Maritime series.

Both teams move over to Moncton today for a single game and then on to Halifax.

Both squads showed unexpected timing in passing on the forward lines and with Hooley Smith to use on defence and as a relief center Rose appears to have a stronger aggregation of players than last year.

Eddie Shore is expected to join the team for the first game in Halifax on Saturday evening.

Athletes in Field Day

Technology's sports teams are ready for the hard field day athletic contests which will be fought out in crew, football, track, and tug-of-war, with more than 100 athletes wearing class colors in the annual contest for supremacy.

The huge program will open with the crew race in the morning, when Coach Bill Haines' crew of sophomores will pull down the river against one of the most promising Tech freshman crews in recent rowing history at Tech.

The football teams are evenly matched, with former schoolboy and prep school aces dotting the lineups of both teams. The sophomores have an all-veteran eleven, but Alby Beveridge, former professional star says that his yearlings have the power to pull out the victory.

The tug-of-war will be contested on opposite sides of a huge "mud wal," with the losing heave and he team being pulled through the mud as it take. its defeat.

Rival Charlestown Clubs to Clash

The Polk A. A. of Charlestown will play the St. Catherine Club from the same district Sunday at Barry Playground in the crucial game of the season for both teams which are at present tied for first place in the Park Department League (Northern Conference).

The Polks are out to avenge last season's defeat by this club which eliminated them for the championship at that time.

St. Catherines has been defeated once this season, while the Polk eleven has yet to be scored upon.

CANADIAN COPPER

A real inside story of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was related by Major N. A. M. Pelletier, adjutant of the "Mounties," when he is interviewed by Ross Graham on "Variety Hour" (WNAC) coming through as a highly interesting. This is the first time that high officers of the force has ever been heard over the radio in the United States.

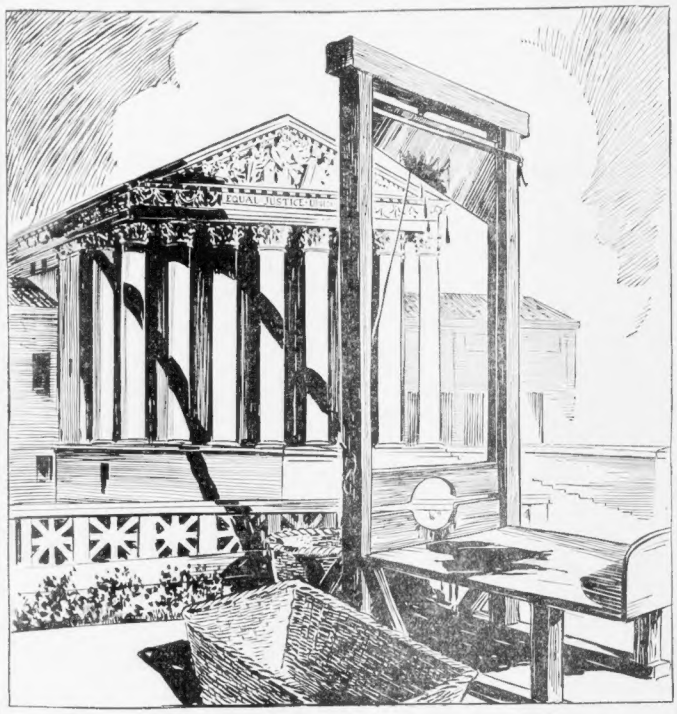
Chet Nelson's peppy transcontinental broadcast from Tommie Manzo's radio Penthouse atop the Mont Bradford, is being heard nightly now (WMEX) as a Hub presentation as well as being promoted from the west to the fast growing inter-city network originating at New York, Pittsburgh and Washington.

Every effort imaginable is being put forth to prevent spot George Holland, who is missing from his vivid "Boston After Dark" column during the broadcasts. The alleged affiliation of the local radio scribes of the Hub ever since Holland left was urged to unmask George soon on the subject. This date is the apparently last in which the interested will be unmasked, somewhere while making his appointed rounds. Hey, Holland, where are you?

Mr. Roosevelt, Why Do You Sponsor This?



President Roosevelt may "repudiate" Communists, although he still has their support. But he has yet to repudiate the "Democratic Digest," official publication of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee.

It was this publication that in March, 1936, following a long list of adverse decisions by the Supreme Court, made this highly revolutionary suggestion:

"The original guillotine which decapitated King Louis XVI, loyal friend of the American colonies when they needed a friend, was sold in France on Saint Valentine's Day for $167.

"With American liberty at stake, it might not be inappropriate to buy that guillotine and set it up in front of the new judicial temple which frowns across the park that separates it from the Capitol."

SO ROOSEVELT NEW DEALERS, IN THE MANNER OF THE BLOODIEST OF REVOLUTIONISTS, WOULD CHOP THE HEADS OFF ALL THAT DARED TO DISAGREE WITH ITS POLICIES!

Of course, it might have been a sarcastic suggestion. But, nonetheless, it does afford thinking citizens a glimpse of the internal operations of some of the more eminent New Deal minds.

What did President Roosevelt do?
Did he reprimand these over-zealous followers?
He did not.

All that the record reveals from him is a letter to Mrs. James H. Wolfe, director of this Democratic National Committee women's division, with this golden praise:

"The Digest has proved its usefulness abundantly during its first year. It has given loyal and faithful support to the Administration, a support which I am happy to acknowledge at this time."

Is talk about beheading American citizens "loyal and faithful support," Mr. President?

MINISTERS FIGHT RED AIR WAVES PROPAGANDA

Special to Boston American

Pittsburgh, Oct. 28—Mustering of the nation's religious forces to stave off Communism was urged and a resolution lauding radio stations which have protested against being asked to broadcast Communistic propaganda at a meeting of ministers and laymen here.

The meeting was sponsored by the "America Forward Movement," a non-partisan, non-sectarian organization aimed against Communism and other un-American movements.

Mrs. Victoria Booth Demarest, renowned woman preacher and granddaughter of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, sounded the keynote of the meeting. She said:

"Communism has revealed itself throughout the world as being boldly and brazenly anti-God and anti-Christ.

"The church, the place in America that should be strongest, is the weakest, most vulnerable spot.

"There is no real Communism in Russia. The only thing they have in common is their wives, children, houses, misery, poverty and their own damnation.

"Their attack is mainly religion, as shown in Russia, in Spain and in Mexico."

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

"Whereas the nation's future is safe only so long as the American home is protected from destructive and devitalizing influences, and

"Whereas the American fireside is in jeopardy, so long as seditious and treasonable utterances are permitted to be broadcast over government-licensed radio stations, and carried into the home through the medium of the radio loudspeaker,

"Therefore, be it resolved that the Pennsylvania conference of clergymen and laymen in session in the Roosevelt Hotel, Pittsburgh, Pa., October 27, 1936, that this conference commend those radio stations which have prohibited or protested the use of their facilities to speakers advocating the overthrow of the American form of government and the substitution of an alien form of government.

"Be it further resolved that this conference urge the Federal Communications Commission to order no American programs from all radio stations and to cease forcing individual stations to broadcast programs considered by them inimical to our American form of government.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Federal Communications Commission and each government licensed radio station in this country."

New York, Oct. 29—Communist leaders in this city today openly played behind strong prison bars instead of being permitted to wage an intelligent fight for the nation. William Griffin, editor and publisher of the New York Enquirer, declared.

Mr. Griffin spoke at a meeting of the Order of Scottish Clans Historical Society, held in celebration of the birthday of the late President Theodore Roosevelt. Recalling his own personal friendship with "this ardent American," Mr. Griffin declared:

"He declared in 1918 that 'Bolshevism means disaster to liberty.'

"If Theodore Roosevelt were with us now he would oppose with his customary fearlessness and far-flung efforts of the Communist party, under the direction of the Red Czar of Russia, Josef the First, to pull down old glory from the White House and run up the blood-drenched flag of Soviet terrorism and regimented slavery."

"Notwithstanding all beliefs to the contrary, Communism in this country has no standing before the law. Under a decision of the Supreme Court our public authorities have the right to outlaw the Communist party and render Communism impotent within our borders."

Mr. Griffin referred to the case of Benjamin Gitlow, who was convicted in New York for Communistic activities and served two years in jail.

He pointed out the Supreme Court refused to release Gitlow and handed down a decision saying:

"A state may punish utterances endangering the foundations of organized government and threatening its overthrow by unlawful means."

Democrats 'Sold Down the River'

THE Democratic Party, which gave America a President in 1932, has, through its false leaders, committed suicide in the campaign of 1936.

Democratic voters, who still adhere to the American principles their party so ably expounded in its 1932 platform, are without a vehicle of their own for the continued espousal of those principles.

This abandonment of a great party by an Administration it elevated to power is WITHOUT PRECEDENT in American political history.

But it is a condition that millions of Democrats are compelled to recognize. They have been, as Governor Landon has so truly said, "sold down the river" by the Roosevelt New Deal.

These Democrats have no choice but to accept this appraisal given by Mr. Landon:

"The present Administration in Washington is not a Democratic Administration at all. It has forfeited all claims to allegiance from those who still believe in the principles of that great party."

The "selling of the Democratic Party down the river" has been deliberately flaunted by the Roosevelt New Deal in the faces of its original sponsors.

This has been done with callous disregard of the rights of the people, of the future of the Democratic Party, and APPARENTLY OF THE CERTAIN CONSEQUENCES.

IN Minnesota, State candidates nominated by the Democratic voters have withdrawn in favor of candidates APPROVED BY THE COMMUNIST PARTY.

President Roosevelt endorsed this withdrawal, COMPLETELY IGNORING THE FACT THAT THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN MINNESOTA WAS LEFT WITHOUT REPRESENTATION IN THE CONTESTS AFFECTED.

In Nebraska, a candidate for the United States Senate, regularly nominated by Democratic voters, is being opposed by an independent candidate ACTIVELY SUPPORTED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and financed by the New Deal trustees of Democratic money.

In these States, the Democratic Party has been "sold out" by the New Deal without a pretense of consulting the wishes of the members of the party.

Democrats in all other States cannot view this astounding abandonment of their party and its traditional principles without realizing its significance.

They know the New Deal has not permitted itself to be bound by the pledges of the Democratic platform. It has never acknowledged obligation to Democratic voters. It has charted its course in direct opposition to Democratic principles.

The party and the things it stands for HAVE BEEN "sold down the river."

The American principles for which they still stand are fully espoused by the platform OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

And in GOVERNOR LANDON they have a Presidential candidate who faithfully supports the American ideals they cherish.

Educators Hail Landon As Hope of Youth

THE OPPOSITION to President Roosevelt of young men and women and their academic guides is one of the significant events of this presidential campaign.

Assuming office four years ago, Mr. Roosevelt received the benediction of almost every liberal educator in America.

Such outstanding men as Dartmouth College President Ernest M. Hopkins not only voted for him, but threw their prestige into the campaign.

They saw in the Democratic platform of 1932 and in the promises of Mr. Roosevelt, who accepted the platform in its entirety, a day of opportunity for the youth of America.

And this was natural, for college presidents, usually, are more concerned with the futures of their students than with their own present ambitions.

BUT President Roosevelt's platform, much to the dismay of the nation's liberals, hardly survived his acceptance speech. One after another, his promises fell by the wayside.

Instead of holding to the pledges that attracted such liberal educators as Professor Raymond Moley of Columbia and Professor O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard to his administration, the President salvaged the wreckage of the Socialist Party platform and adopted it as his own.

Disillusioned, Professors Moley and Sprague left Washington, and to their places, commanding more and more power, went such known radicals as Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell, Professor Felix Frankfurter, Donald Richberg and others.

They became the "trumps" in the New Deal pack, and how they "trumped" all the aces among the good pledges only men of the President Hopkins type realize.

TODAY, four years later, the liberal educators of America are almost without exception in favor of the defeat of President Roosevelt and the election of Governor Landon.

President Hopkins has publicly announced his allegiance to the Republican cause.

Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard Law School joins him with a brilliant delegation, including Professors John M. Maguire, Joseph H. Beale, Martin C. Campbell and George K. Gardner.

President Tyler Dennett, Williams College's liberal head, predicts the end of independent universities if the New Deal continues its confiscation of endowment gifts.

Dr. Glenn Frank, youthful president of the University of Wisconsin, fights the Roosevelt Administration even though its friends, the LaFollettes, threaten to remove him.

IN widely separated sections of the country there are many others sharing these leaders' views, all closely united in the belief that the substitution of radicalism for liberality under President Roosevelt means the loss of opportunity for the girls and boys they are training to be the men and women of tomorrow.

In student straw polls, notably at Harvard, Technology and Smith, the opinions of liberal educators find reflection.

Always the sentiment is overwhelmingly Landon. Only in the Communist and radical centers does the New Deal receive support.

Everywhere it becomes more apparent that liberality and radicalism are as far apart in this election as the two principal presidential nominees, between whom the voters will make a selection on November third.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

New York, Oct. 29—The revival Democracy is around town after a dismal dip into the dregs of the metropolitan's mob-rana's nobmerged — an elbow rub with the for-lorn as well as the ever hopeful literally down to their last penny. Every dish is scaled in pennies. A sizable meal for 6 cents.

Depew has congealed and spread its salad ingredients but here and there is a shining bright face pushing up lily-like in the beg. The overtime, to mix a metaphor, is the thick silence. The ominous silence of the prison yard. No one talks. They just slouch and stare.

There is the tinge of vanquished opulence in the genteel folder with pince nez who dines by cleanses his table utensils. Those who go in the exit and peer cautiously up and down before pulling their hats down, pushing coat collars up for a jump in own traffic.

Too, the inevitable old lady you feel certain once set great store by the alluring tag line: "Never a loss to an investor." Out in the Bowery a machine that vends cigarets for a penny. Not all depression victims. In instances, the pound foolish, sow penny wise.

Stage technique: A director tells me that in selecting natty gentlemen for drawing room roles the test of pronouncing the word "impossible" is used. If the lads fail to "point up" the second "i" as we do largely in the Middle West—saying "impossabil," they are definitely out. What most casters angle for is a voice and diction of Ralph Forbes and the early Menjou nonchalance.

Down a meander of East Central Park is a patch of greenery known to the sparrow cops as Acrobat Meadow. Here "piff-swingers" who used to rehearse in a rented Bryant Hall on 6th avenue have a free ground to practice nip ups, back flops, forward turns and other easings. As well as the perch act balancers. Many an amazed pedestrian turns into the sudden panorama of flying figures suggesting the finale by the Arab troupe at the old Hippodrome, Hi yi! Eeee!

Broadway at the moment has no outstanding gangster to shudder the visiting firemen and school marms. Such as Legs Diamond, Dutch Schultz and Owney Madden. Those who have not met violent death are keeping out of the spot light. Among other things, Mr. Valentine doesn't like them conspicuous.

A few years ago the visitor to almost any swing mosque found a beetle-browed mobster and his chemical chicades occupying a ringside table. Generally the gangster had a "piece" of this club or that and was there to see that thieves were not trimming the thieves.

Most vaudeville fans remember the famous Powers elephants—Lena, Jennie, Rosie and Julia. John Royal tells me an interesting yarn of the pachyderms. Mrs. Jeanne Power, the owner, took them to Europe several years ago for a tour. They were ferried over on the Minnetonka, now scrapped in Davy Jones' locker.

Recently Mrs. Powers became homesick and wanted to some back to America, only to learn there is no ship available where elephants can walk on. They must be swung by cable from pier to ship hold. And that's impossible with this quartette. They refuse to be separated.

Where one goes all go. The ineradicable herdal instinct of the jungle surviving captivity. If one is taken away the others go on a rampage. So they are eating away a fortune. If they cannot walk on like ladies—single file—they will not play.

Thingumbobs: Mussolini has mastered 21 languages . . . Mollie Picon, Ghetto star, has become a hit in provincial England . . . Dorothy Parker and her husband have bought an old farm overlooking the Delaware river . . . Joan Lowell has a stuffed whale in her back yard . . . Earl Carroll is writing a weekly page for the London Telegraph . . . Marie Tempest, at 76, is doing a Marie Dressler in English movies.

Do You Want a Showman Or a Statesman?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in keeping the nation in suspense, has the genius of a showman.

From the time the curtain first went up on the New Deal, the people of America have never known what to expect next.

They have been thrilled and chilled and have paid more money into the boxoffice after every act. But no one knows what the plot is all about, the author least of all.

Governor Landon has none of this talent.

But he knows how to run a government within its income, how to give the people jobs instead of doles, how to keep politics out of the relief of human misery.

Which will it be? THE SHOWMAN, OR THE STATESMAN?

Today's Text: "Be strong and of good courage. The Lord thy God in with thee."—Joshua 1:9. Suggested by the Rev. John L. Ivy, Methodist Church, Melrose.

Why Not American Hats?

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Edwin C. Hill

This observer is on boulevardier, but he can't help hoping that before long (they'll get women's hats under control. Man and boy, we've never seen the like of the wild headgear which disturbs the afternoon stroll of any well-disposed citizen who likes to think that the worst is over and that, after all, the comedie humaine isn't going to break up in an all-around dog fight.

Back in Berry Wall's day, you got, along the avenue, a prevailing "Merry Widow" affect, altogether feminine, never disturbingly varied and never eccentric. Hats like that, designed primarily to enhance the comeliness of the wearer, bloomed in the days of coaching parties, the two-for-a-quarter cocktail, the $2 top at the theater, the unchanging and changeless Gibson Girl, Mrs. Leslie Carter, the Pennsylvania guards-back play, good steak beer, banquet oratory and the open door in China.

Are the hats of today premeditated, or are they the reflexes of the intellectual distortions and the excesses which afflict the world? I saw one today with furry, drooping fabe which made the wearer, a pretty young thing, at that, look like an abject cocker spaniel. Another was a chemist's retort, still another lopped sideways, like a length of busted stove pipe. There were no two alike. All were asymmetrical—"cock-eyed"—if you prefer it.

HOWITZERS OR TANKS

Within the last few days, having become violently hat-conscious, I have noticed a few that looked like howitzers or tanks. My worst fears are confirmed when, on top of all that, comes a dispatch from Paris, reporting that not only Paris, but all Europe, is going hay-wire over hats of military design.

Cartridge-pleated ribbons are the smartest thing to be used for trimming a hat. Many of the hats are shaped like East Indian war shields, says the Paris dispatch; many are built like field marshals' helmets; many employ gold braid for the military effect, and a favorite model is a flat machine-gun pillbox turban.

One of the snappy numbers of this fashion show was a gown called "Battle Rages in San Sebastian." "The Red Flag Over Paris" was the tag on another featured creation. "Danger Red" was extolled as a smart new color. Last August, Lanvin, in Paris, was booming "proletarian" gowns and peaked hats derived from a workman's cap. Creed, Vionnet, Boulanger, Schiaparelli and the rest were falling in line with "front page" hats and gowns.

WHY NOT HOME STYLES?

What single hat has been the most publicized within the last three years? Francis Perkins' tricorn, of course. And it comes down from the French Revolution. The "mob cap" was the basis of the smart French "tam." The Bonaparte hat, with wings on the side, came from the battlefield to the salon—and stayed a century and more.

The Gainsborough hat tells a different story — sylvan peace, decorum, an untroubled world. The Queen Mary hat tries to tell the same story, but can't get a hearing. It seems too bad that women don't take to it. Surely it would be a safe and sorely world if all the women wore hats like that.

Two years ago, under the directorship of Edmund Johnson, the Metropolitan Opera announced a policy of fostering home talent. Native singers were to receive more attention, to be given more opportunities. We were going to nurture and develop not only American voices, but American music.

This policy is slowly being carried out. Why not the same thing in styles? We have talent, fabrics, splendid workmen of design and we have national newspaper and magazine circulation for public education and guidance in style unmatched in any country in the world.

When America was coming of age, France held august world leadership in style design. We didn't dare call our soul our own when it came to the sophisticated subtitles of dress. We're grown up now, but this inferority still hangs over us and we are swept by all the vagaries of change with him by 1941. They figger Mr. Roosevelt is like the man on the Flying Trapeeze, he don't have nowheres to go except Down.

This Republican was real happy, he says to me, "What with Roosevelt's budjit all out of whack, & his unemployed folks growing more unemployed today every day, the Next President will sure be the goat. So hooray for Mr. Roosevelt our next President, have another Beer," he says.

And that is why I have just woke up with a head-ache, Mr. Farley. I am scairt that poor Mr. Roosevelt might win. I figger he should of took a lay-off from Politics till 1940 and when things was down to where nobody could make them worse, he could come back & be a hero like he was in 1932.

Yours worried,
W. NORMAN.

"Dear Govt."

DEAR MR. FARLEY:

I bet you will not believe your ears when you see this, but there is a rooner going around that one or two of Guv. Landon's friends is going to vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

I heard about it down at Charlie's Bar last night, a man come up with a big sun-flower in his buttinhole, and he says to me, "Who are you voteing for next Tuesday?"

"Roosevelt," I says, real proud. "Me too," he says, "shake hands, brother."

"But my goodness," I says, "you got a Sunflower in your buttinhole. You must of stole that out your are wareing, or else you had two many Beers & forgot you was for Landon."

"But I am for Landon," he says, "and that is why I am voteing for Roosevelt. All Landon is a fine man, he hasent done no harm to nobody, and dang if I will do him a dirty trick & put him in the White House to clean up after Roosevelt."

Well, Mr. Farley, you could of knocked me over with a glass of beer. Which is why I am afraid this Republican told me about the plan they got to ruin Mr. Roosevelt. They are going to put him back, because they figger all his promises will ketch up with him by 1941. They figger Mr. Roosevelt is like the man on the Flying Trapeeze, he don't have nowheres to go except Down.

This Republican was real happy, he says to me, "What with Roosevelt's budjit all out of whack, & his unemployed folks growing more unemployed today every day, the Next President will sure be the goat. So hooray for Mr. Roosevelt our next President, have another Beer," he says.

And that is why I have just woke up with a head-acke, Mr. Farley. I am scairt that poor Mr. Roosevelt might win. I figger he should of took a lay-off from Politics till 1940 and when things was down to where nobody could make them worse, he could come back & be a hero like he was in 1932.

Yours worried,
W. NORMAN.
